

Teaching in higher education through the medium of English. Summer residential course

LLAS CENTRE FOR LANGUAGES
LINGUISTICS &
AREA STUDIES

The University of Southampton is offering a five-day course designed for academics in universities across the world whose first language is not English and who are delivering degree programmes and presenting research through the medium of English.

The course will be delivered by staff working in the field of English as a medium of Instruction (EMI) and will consist of presentations, discussion, group work and individual support.

Course location: Southampton, UK

Minimum entry requirements: good intermediate level of English (e.g. CEFR B2 or equivalent)

Duration: Monday 18 June to Friday 22 June 2012

Course fee: £1,150. This fee includes half-board hotel accommodation for 6 nights (Sunday to Friday inclusive) and a minimum of 25 hours class time.

Email llas@southampton.ac.uk before 31 March 2012 to register

Key areas to be covered during the course are:

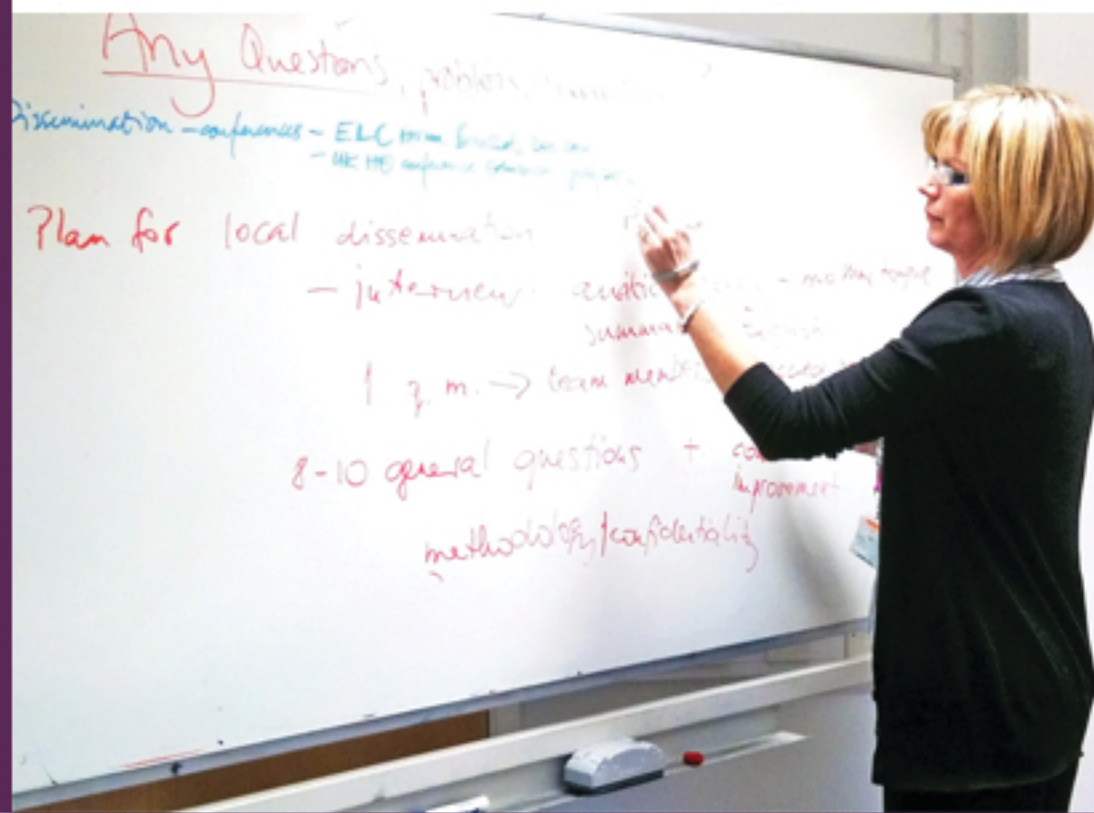

Using English in the lecture theatre and the seminar room

Supporting the language needs of your international students

Giving papers and presentations at conferences

Raising your profile through English

Building your confidence to deliver through English

University of Southampton

The University of Southampton is one of the top 15 research universities in the UK and one of the top 100 universities in the world, with a global reputation for excellent research, teaching and learning. Located on the south coast of England, Southampton is just over one hour from central London and has excellent connections to the rest of the UK and Europe by road, rail and air.

This course has been developed by the LLAS Centre for Languages, Linguistics and Area Studies and the English Language Section in the Department of Modern Languages.

LLAS has been working with the higher education sector in the UK and Europe since 2000. It provides high quality professional development and training, resources, project management and consultancy to language educators in schools and universities and is engaged in a number of European projects to enhance the quality of language learning in higher and adult education.

Modern Languages is a leading UK department and was ranked second in the UK 2008 Research Assessment exercise for European Studies. The Modern Languages Department hosts three leading research centres: the Centre for Applied Language Research, the Centre for Transnational Studies and the Centre for Global Englishes. English language is taught to over a thousand students each year. Teaching staff carry out pedagogical research in a number of areas relating to the teaching of English language, mainly at university level.

www.llas.ac.uk

llas@soton.ac.uk

+44 (0)23 8059 4814